RE: Synca Direct, Inc. v. MultiMedia Dental Systems, Inc.

Dear Mr. Digel:

I have your letter of November 27, 2006 and have discussed it with my client.

We are unwilling to engage in what we believe to be partial discovery on a voluntary basis as once you have filed your answer (which I have not seen to date), and we have a scheduling order, we can exchange appropriate document discovery.

I want to reiterate the fact that my client believes that your client does not have the legal right to use the software and thus there will be substantial discovery involving those issues with the issue of the source code being somewhat, in our opinion, subsumed by the issue of entitlement to use (having ownership and/or a license) thus we see no substantial benefit to proceeding as you suggest.

My clients are willing to engage in discussions to negotiate a resolution however, we must be clear at the outset and indicate that that means that my clients will be entitled to utilize the source code which they have and they would not object to your client continuing to use the source code which it has.

Please advise if you would like to proceed in that fashion, otherwise we will await your answer and proceed in the normal course for discovery.

Awaiting your further advices, I remain,

Very truly yours,
